RSPCA calls for help finding pet cat seen with arrow in its body in Calamvale, Queensland

 FEBRUARY 11, 2017 1:41PM

The cat was last seen in Lange Court in Calamvale.

AAP, The Courier-Mail

A GINGER cat shot with an arrow is recovering after being found in a storm water drain south of Brisbane.

RSPCA officials issued a desperate plea to find the injured feline on Thursday, after a Calamvale woman saw it and reported it to the animal welfare authority.

The cat is now recovering at RSPCA Qld’s Animal Hospital at Wacol.

RSPCA spokesman Michael Beatty said the cat, named Mikey, had the arrow safely removed by vets and was recovering on Saturday after being hauled to safety from a drain at Calamvale with the help of firefighters.

“We’d like to thank the Firies who helped us coax the cat out of the drain and haul him up to safety,” said Mr Beatty.

“The arrow was removed by our vets and so far he seems to be recovering well. Luckily the arrow appears to have missed vital organs and he was eating ravenously this morning.

However we’d still like anyone who has any information in regard to the attack to come forward.”
